~Feature Articles~ ~Meeting & Event Pictures~

Compiled By Donald Lanman

Before the remaining U.S. Marines departed the United States Embassy in Saigon in April 1975, the last American combat troops had already withdrawn from Vietnam on March 29, 1973.

It's a day designated by Congress as a National Day of Honor where the flag is displayed in recognition of all who participated in the hotly debated conflict in a desperate and dangerous country.

What began as an initial commitment of military advisors sent by President Eisenhower to South Vietnam escalated in the ensuing decade to a force that at its peak, in 1969, under the Johnson Administration, reached more than 543,000 American service members.

From 1964 to 1975, an estimated 2.7 million American personnel were committed to stopping North Vietnamese aggression into South Vietnam, and with it, containing the spread of communism in Southeast Asia. A staggering toll and a complicated legacy were left behind.

58,000+ American service members were killed in action, with an estimated 300,000 wounded. The North Vietnamese and Vietcong suffered casualties as high as 851,000+, yet far more Vietnamese civilians died in the crossfire and related collateral damage.

Service members who survived their deployment to Vietnam returned home to an ungrateful welcome.

It was devoid of the fanfare and appreciation that was showered upon returning GIs from Europe and the Pacific in World War II.

*Who these brave men and women were before going to Vietnam was not the same as who they became, and who they are today.*

Welcome Home Brothers & Sisters in Arms, & Thank You for your selfless service!

Thoughts, Musings, Poems

By Donald K. Lanman, US ARMY 1966-69

SIX

6 this is Romeo 6 - Come In...

I'm on patrol deep in the bush trying my best...I'm Lost

Just turned 20, commissioned to lead Men, just boys really-like me, in a desperate and dangerous land... I'm Lost

What training prepares boys to lead other boys to do the unthinkable;

Surly not 180 days of spit-n-polish, inspections, drills, parades, and ceremony...

Can't vote or buy a drink...yet I can lead others into unforgiving fury... I'm Lost,

Rank, Color or Religion don't matter here, it's just about; you watch my back, I'll watch yours,

I lean on older sergeants to teach me, and rely on seasoned comrades to show me the dangers, mines and traps,

Hoping, no praying, not to let my comrades down or worse... I'm Lost

6 this is Romeo 6, Come In?

Welcome Home

I arrive from my second deployment to an indifferent, often hostel home devoid of a warm welcome, acknowledgement, reassurance or even some appreciation,

Proudly, I stroll down the crowded city streets, a kaleidoscope of neon lights, signs, noises and people,

In my Class-A Greens, sharp peaked hat, gold braid, ribbons, black stripes and shined shoes, certain the ladies will be impressed, I stroll along confident in myself,

Baby Killer, Fascist, and other vile jeers greeted me instead of garlands or accolades,

What had happened to the America I knew, where was the patriotism I grew up with, where was any acknowledgement of the service of so Few for so Many,

Disenchanted, dejected, angry, I strolled on lost in my thoughts contemplating the meaning of the abuse, vile remarks and desolation,

An old man, in a worn wheel chair, dressed in a faded Army field jacket, adorned with unit patches, badges and a Silver Star reflecting in the city lights rolled up to me...

I returned his smart salute, as he said, Welcome Home Son, Well Done!

No longer dejected, this Veteran, this Brother in arms, this Comrade of another time, was my Welcome Home.
